The Committee must complete the work within a maximum period of 60 days from receipt of the candidates' applications; it performs a comparative evaluation of the candidates based on the examination of the qualifications submitted by the same and an interview and draws up appropriate minutes according to the current selection regulations.

The judgment of the Commission is unquestionable on the merits.

Art.5 - Selection

The selection is carried out through the evaluation of academic qualification and interview. Up to 50 points may be awarded to qualifications and up to 50 points to the interview. The interview is considered passed by candidates who have achieved at least 30 out of 50 available points. To pass the test, the candidate must obtain an overall score, for qualifications and interview, of at least 50/100.

knowledge with respect to the research program of the research fellowship grant as well as the knowledge of the foreign language (for candidates who do not hold the level B1 certificate).

Art.7 Interview and ranking

Candidates, at least 20 days in advance, unless at the time of submitting the application, attach a declaration certifying that they waive the legal notice periods, will be notified in the manner deemed most appropriate, of the place, day and date. time when the interview will take place. To take the interview, candidates must have a valid identification document.

At the end of each interview session, the Commission will display at the exam center the list of candidates examined with an indication of the marks obtained by each.

The interview will take place in a room open to the public.

The Commission forms the merit ranking in decreasing order, adding the score of the qualifications to that of the interview.

For the purposes of awarding grants, a research doctorate or, for the sectors concerned, a qualification in the medical area accompanied by adequate scientific production is a preferential qualification.

In the event of equal merit, preference will be given to the candidate with the younger age.

A specific report will be drawn up of the selection operations and signed by all members of the Commission, which, once its work has been completed, will immediately transmit, via the Titulus IT protocol system, all the documents to the Research and Technology Transfer Area - Doctorates and Contracts Sector of Research - U.O. TITLE	Production, Physicochemical Characterization, and Rheological Analysis of New Polymer-Based Formulations for Derivatives from Avocado
DESCRIPTION	The research activities involve the preliminary identification of suitable polymeric materials for the development of systems designed to formulate

	derivatives from avocado including oil to the skin and mucous membranes. The possibility of modifying the base polymers through functionalization with specific molecular fragments will be assessed to impart optimal physicochemical and rheological properties to the biomaterials for the intended application. The physicochemical characterization of the resulting polymer derivatives will be conducted using spectroscopic techniques (e.g., UV-Vis, NMR, FTIR) and chromatographic methods (such as Size Exclusion Chromatography) to determine their composition, structure, and molecular weight. These materials will be employed to develop systems such as hydrogels, creams, and nanofibrillar patches, designed to incorporate bioactive molecules and release them in a controlled manner at the application site. These systems will also be characterized rheologically to evaluate their stability, ease of application to the target areas, adhesion to treated tissues, and retention time at the administration site.

DESCRIPTION	The research activity, dealing with the more general one of the "Mazzoni Italian Exotic Fruit Integrated Supply Chain" (FITOLIMA) project, provides for microbiological investigations to be conducted on the avocado fruit and its derivatives produced in the within of the FITOLIMA project. In particular, the research activity is divided into two sub-activities, namely: i) the characterization of the microbiota of avocado fruit and its derivatives by molecular techniques and culture-dependent approaches, aimed at defining the structure of the microbiota and isolating microbial strains of biological and biotechnological interest, respectively; ii) the characterization of the activity of inhibition of microbial growth and inhibition of microbial biofilm formation by avocado fruit derivatives using laboratory reference microorganisms as tester strains.

TITLE	Analysis of derivative and formulation products from Avocado on 3D systems (spheroids) and in an "in vivo" animal model
DESCRIPTION	As part of the project "Mazzoni Italian exotic fruit integrated supply chain project" (FITOLIMA) which aims to identify derivatives and processed products of the second choice avocado fruit, evaluating in perspective their possible use in the food, nutraceutical and cosmetic sectors. Focusing on the optimization of the use of the entire production with a view to reducing waste, also taking into account the need to overcome the natural limits of the shelf life of the fruit. With regard to Analysis of components extracted from Avocado waste on 3D systems (spheroids) and in an "in vivo" animal model, we aim to evaluate both in 3D systems, spheroids obtained from primary tumor cells; that in "in vivo" animal model systems, wound healing model and diabetic animal, evaluate both from the point of view of the inflammatory response, the immunological, humoral and cell-mediated response, and cellular response in general, the effects of derivative and formulation products of Avocado.

TITLE	Development and study of innovative formulations to increase the applicative and commercial value of avocado derivatives in the nutraceutical and/or food and/or cosmetic fields.
DESCRIPTION	The research is focused on the identification of derivatives and industrial products starting from the second choice avocado fruit grown in Sicily, with the aim of re-evaluating its possible use not only in the food area, but also in nutraceutical and cosmetics.
